4. My 'Zulassungsarbeit' will be in

Written exam ('schriftliche Klausur'): Linguistics yes/no/maybe; Literature yes/no/maybe
 Only consider doing your written exam in linguistics if you have a solid background in at least one other core area of linguistics that will not be part of your oral exam.

Oral exam ('mündliche Prüfung')

- One of the topics ('Schwerpunkte') that you select for the oral exam must be a so-called 'core area' ('Kerngebiet') in linguistics, i.e. 'Phonetics', 'Phonology', 'Morphology', 'Syntax', 'Semantics', or 'Pragmatics'. Please select a core area in which you have taken a course ('Proseminar') before the 'Zwischenprüfung'.

- For the other topic – or topics – for the oral exam we suggest another core area and/or ‘English Stylistics’, ‘Sociolinguistics’, ‘First Language Acquisition’, ‘Second Language Acquisition’, ‘Bilingualism’, ‘Linguistic Analysis of Verbal Art’, ‘Typology’ and ‘Computational Linguistics’. For a successful exam, it is essential that you select your topics carefully; only select topics that are part of courses that you took before or will be taking this semester.

5. I would like my oral exam to have emphasis on:

- Literature (40 minutes literature; 20 minutes linguistics) with the following topic for the linguistics part of the exam:
 - (i)
- Literature and Linguistics (‘Ohne Gewichtung’, 30 minutes literature; 30 minutes linguistics) with these two topics for linguistics:
 - (i)
 - (ii)
- Linguistics (20 minutes literature; 40 minutes linguistics) with these three topics for the part on linguistics:
 - (i)
 - (ii)
 - (iii)

Please note that the following topics have to be part of the oral exam and should therefore not be included in the list of topics that you propose above:

- ‘die wichtigsten Unterschiede zwischen amerikanischem und britischem Englisch’
- ‘die wichtigsten historischen strukturellen Veränderungen der englischen Sprache’.

6. Examiners

Given the large number of exam candidates and the limited number of examiners, a reasonable distribution of the former among the latter has to be guaranteed. Therefore, please indicate your own order of preference by assigning a number from 1 (most preferred) to 5 (least preferred) to the names of the examiners below. We will do our best to allocate you optimally and you will be notified by our secretary in January (for the exams that will take place in the autumn of that year) or July (for the exams that will take place in the spring of the following year).
