

Ringvorlesung Mehrsprachigkeit

The Multilingual Mind: lecture series on multilingualism across disciplines

WS 2022/2023, Tuesdays, 17:00–18:30
(CET/UTC+01)

08.11.22 (A703)

On-line comprehension and production of multiple interrogatives in Romanian heritage children

Anamaria Bentea, University of Konstanz

15.11.22 (A703)

Do policies change language use? The Sámi languages in Sweden and Norway

Anika Lloyd-Smith, University of Konstanz

Monday 28.11.22 (Audimax – hybrid)

Mythen und Realität über Mehrsprachigkeit
(in German, part of Studium Generale)

Theodoros Marinis, University of Konstanz

13.12.22 (Zoom)

Effects of markedness in gender processing in Italian as a heritage language: A speed accuracy tradeoff

Grazia Di Pisa, University of Konstanz

20.12.22 (A703)

Boosting metalinguistic awareness and text comprehension under dual language activation

Jacopo Torregrossa, University of Frankfurt

10.01.23 (Zoom)

Measuring the impact of bilingualism in the language and cognitive skills of autistic children

Eleni Perister, Aristotle University of Thessaloniki

24.01.23 (Zoom)

Bilingualism and the expression of stereotypes: the importance of executive control and motivation

Sofia González Castro, Jagiellonian University

31.01.23 (Zoom)

Relative clauses in L2 Greek: experimental and corpus data

Despoina Papadopoulou,

Aristotle University of Thessaloniki

Organisation: Department of Linguistics, Centre for Multilingualism, Project MultiMind

Contact: t.marinis@uni-konstanz.de

The MultiMind project has received funding from the European Union's Horizon2020 research and innovation programme under the Marie Skłodowska Curie grant agreement No 765556.

Registration to access the Zoom room:
www.mehrsprachigkeit.uni-konstanz.de/news-events/the-multilingual-mind-lecture-series-22/23

– mehrsprachigkeit.uni.kn
– multilingualmind.eu